If you’re planning to attend IU after you graduate, you will have numerous study abroad options.

- 25% of graduating IUB seniors have had an international experience.
- Over 50% of HPFL alumni that attend IU participate in a study abroad program during their undergraduate career.
- Most students study abroad during their junior year, but other options are available.
- We offer programs for various majors in Europe; South, Central & Latin America; the Middle East; Africa; Asia; and Oceania (Australia & New Zealand).
- You can study abroad and still graduate in four years.
- In 2011-12, 67% of our participants used financial aid to study abroad.

FUNDING YOUR EXPERIENCE:

Most IU financial aid can be applied to study abroad costs, although there are some exceptions. IU makes available more than $9 million a year to students who study abroad. For more information, visit http://overseas.iu.edu/first/financial-aid.

NEXT STEPS:

- Visit http://overseas.iu.edu for more information.
- Stop by the Office of Overseas Study to speak to an IU student who has studied abroad.
- During your freshman year, attend one of our Study Abroad 101 sessions at 4 p.m. Wednesdays in the Leo R. Dowling International Center, 111 South Jordan Avenue, on the Bloomington campus.
- If you have questions, e-mail overseas@iu.edu.

Please note that our walk-in hours are 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday while IU classes are in session.
